

Kettle & Stony Point Head Start Day Care has recently taken on a new initiative to help promote early literacy skills. This new initiative received from The Ministry of Education in collaboration with the Dolly Parton Imagination Library foundation is promoting reading and learning through books. The early literacy initiative can help reinforce the importance of books, reading and to strengthen reading at home.

The Dolly Parton Imagination Library will mail a monthly book directly to each registered child's house aged 0-5 years of age at no cost. If you have a child age 0 – 5 and are a registered band member of Kettle & Stony Point First Nation I can register your child, so they to can participate in this fantastic learning opportunity.
